Enticement

“Enticement”

by Henry Asencio

In his new Fine Art Limited Edition, Enticement, Henry Asencio’s female figure looks ahead. She anticipates the future. She hears the opportunities that call her forward and seeks them out with curiosity and fervor. The potential that she sees within herself beckons her toward its fulfillment.

Asencio identifies on canvas pure emotion and the essence of the human experience. He reveals the inner desires of woman; her determination and motivation. He renders the philosophy of “Solace in the Midst of Chaos” by identifying the aspirations that inspire action. She does not sit idly by; she instead leans slightly forward, eager to begin an exciting new chapter in her life.

Asencio himself invokes curiosity in his innovative color palette, as the passionate strokes of red, yellow, orange, and purple fly like sparks bursting into a sunset sky. Jagged lines and strong, varying textures suggest movement and energy. The vibrant white against the rich color in the distance leads the eye from the figure’s illuminated silhouette into the depth of her stare.

What is it that entices her? It is the promise that whatever she seeks, whether it be success, happiness, greatness or love, is attainable.
